ICE POLO.

The recent cold weather has offered an exceptionally early opportunity for skating and those enthusiasts who are anxious to start the ice polo, hail the fact with delight. In view of the general interest in the game, we venture the following description of it.

Ice polo is probably a development from roller polo, and is played almost exclusively in New England. Though the object sought in ice polo is much the same as in ice hockey, i. e., "to score to lift, slide push or knock the puck through your opponent's goals," there is a great difference in the method of play.

In ice polo, a ball is used instead of a puck, and a much heavier and stouter stick is employed, but the cardinal point wherein these sports differ, is the absence of any rule, forbidding off-side play in ice polo and the almost universal one-handed use of the ice polo stick. Consequently ice polo is a more open game, the field of players being continually separated and the tries-for-goal being made from passes from unlimited directions.

Five men constitute an ice polo team, as follows: one goal-tend, one half-back, one centre and two rushers. The rushers must be rapid skaters, adepts in dribbling and passing, as well as accurate goal shots. They are called upon to shoot the ball at the goal when it is shot at them at its swiftest, from one of their own team. The centre is a support for the rushers and either tries for goal himself or passes the ball to the most available rusher. Generally these three carry the ball down the rink in a triangular formation, equilateral or with the base of the triangle from the opposing goal, thus allowing of continual passing, one to the other, when the man carrying the ball is opposed. The half-back should be the most robust member of the team, as he must block his opponent's rushes, being the first defense man they meet in the run toward the goal they attack. His is a most difficult position, as he must also intercept the majority of the tries for the goal which he defends. The goal-tend must be a cool but active player. He should rarely leave his station and never except in the case of a great emergency.

Some of the important rules are as follows: "The distance from goal to goal shall be 150 feet. The goal shall be four feet wide. The sticks shall not exceed four feet in length nor one and one-fourth inches in diameter. The time between halves shall not exceed ten minutes. After each goal the ball shall be placed in the centre. At the end of the first half the sides shall change goals. A goal shall be considered as three points. A goal is made by passing the ball over a straight line, connecting the two elements of the goal at height from the ice of not more than 18 inches.

Miss Annie Beecher Scoville, formerly a Dana Hall and College girl, will give a lecture on Indian Life, at Dana Hall, Saturday afternoon, December 7, at 4 o'clock. Miss Scoville has had many years of experience, as a teacher at Hampden Institute; this, with extensive travel and study, combines to make Miss Scoville's lecture valuable, and full of interesting facts from actual contact with, and observation of, the Indian people.

The tickets are 50 cts. and will be on sale at the Tea Room, Drug Store and Dana Hall.

The Senior parlor, on first floor centre, has been formally opened and is now being used by the senior class. The room is done in green and gold, the window seat and chairs carrying out that color scheme. The parlor is for the use of seniors alone, under-graduates being invited only on formal occasions. It is planned to have tea served there every two weeks, on Wednesday, each tea to be in charge of several members of the class.

At present the book-shelves are lamentably empty, but it is hoped that books will be given or loaned by the individual members of the class.

Since June, Miss Laughlin has been with the commission, in Washington, as expert agent, indexing, digesting and reviewing testimony, and also writing up special subjects for the final report of the Commission to Congress. For the next few months, beginning Dec. 2nd, Miss Laughlin will travel about, speaking for the National Suffrage Association in Maine, New York, Ohio and probably in Kentucky.

We clip the following summary from Miss Laughlin's report on Domestic Service.

Summary.—To summarize the conclusions reached: Conditions in domestic service are at present unsatisfactory. The testimony of people generally, and the facts stated by those who come most closely into touch with domestic labor, seem to establish that in a large proportion of cases the service rendered by domestic employees is unsatisfactory and that the supply of competent domestic workers is far below the demand. In short, domestic service is largely in the hands of untrained and incompetent workers, and is unpopular with the majority of intelligent women wage-earners. The reason for this is not found in the wages paid, for it is admitted that wages in domestic service are, all things considered, higher than are the wages paid in many more popular lines of work. The reason is found in other conditions which exist, and primarily in the fact that the domestic employee is looked upon as a personal servant rather than as an employee hired to perform specific service. Because of this view there is no fixed standard of work, the hours of labor are indefinite, the employee's entire time is subject to the control of the employer. The position of the employee in the household is that of a semi-dependent, her social position is that of an inferior.

To improve the character of domestic service, the supply of intelligent workers must be increased; to increase the supply of intelligent workers conditions must be so modified as to make the conditions in domestic service conform, to as great an extent as possible, to conditions existing in other industries, and especially so modified as to put the social position of the domestic employee on a par with that of other wage-earners. In other words, domestic service must be put on a business basis. This can be done only through cooperation on the part of both employers and employees, cooperation based on a better and more scientific conception of the character of household labor. The process must be primarily educational, both as regards employer and employee. Instruction in the public schools in the elementary principles which bear upon household affairs would do much to give to the next generation a better understanding of the importance of household labor and of the principles underlying it. The establishment of training schools in which young girls could obtain training in housework as a trade would, in conjunction with the offering by employers of business conditions, bring into domestic service an intelligent class of workers trained to perform the work for which they were hired. The scientific study and investigation of household labor in the higher institutions of learning would, in time, result in the discovery and application of better methods in household labor and tend to improve household service, as such study and investigations have resulted in respect to agricultural labor.

The evils existing in domestic service arise chiefly from the failure to apply to such service modern economic principles. These evils must be remedied by the slow process of evolution through education.

The evils which grow out of the methods in vogue at many, if not most, intelligence offices, and which have been already referred to at length, are removable by legislation."

COLLEGE NOTES.

Rehearsals are in progress for the Christmas vespers, which will occur on the last Sunday evening, Dec. 15, before the college closes for the holiday recess.

Miss L. M. Hodgkins and Miss Julia Bonnifield, of Foo Chow, China, were recently entertained at luncheon, at the College, by Miss Whiting.

Mrs. Virginia Yeaman Remnitz, '84-'86, has a story in November Harpers. Miss Florence Wilkinson, also has a story "The Calling of Jeremy," in the same number.

Miss Wilkinson is a New York girl, and her father is the celebrated William Cleaver Wilkinson of the Chicago University. She was graduated from Wellesley in 1892, and since that time has done magazine and other literary work. She taught Greek and Latin in the institute near Frankfort, Ky., for a short time after her graduation, but came North again in 1893, when she was an editor on a Chicago magazine.

She wrote the senior play, "Aucassin and Nicolette," for the senior class at Wellesley in 1900.

"The Strength of the Hills" is not her first book, "The Lady of the Flag Flowers" having been published a few years ago."

A Roman Midwinter, in the November Magazine, written by Edith Lehman, 1900, is a most realistic bit of description, and written in a delightful manner.

Gertrude Foster, formerly 1902, spent a part of last week with Miss Libby '02 and Miss Spink '02.

Emma Alden, formerly 1902, visited friends at College last week. The Snapper Club, of which Miss Alden was a member, freshman year, gave a luncheon at Wood Cottage, in her honor.

Bertha di Zeriga spent Thanksgiving at College.

Miss Ethel Nye Gibbs, '01, Miss Edith Norcross, '00 and Miss Mabelle Philips, '00, alumnae of Tau Zeta Epsilon, were back to the regular meeting of that society, on last Saturday night.

Among the Shakespeare alumnae, present at the meeting on last Saturday night, were Miss Corrine Wagner, '99, Miss Marion Cook, '00, Miss Ethel Bowman, '00, and Miss Bertha di Zeriga, '01.

Miss Lucile Eaton Hill has been appointed Supervisor of Athletic Sports, by the Trustees of the College.

The sale of seats for the golf play began last Saturday at one o'clock. Promptly at that hour, a long line formed, and by two o'clock the greater part of the fifty cent seats were sold. Other office hours were held on Wednesday at nine, in the morning, and will be again, on Friday, at one o'clock. The play will begin promptly at 7.30.

On Monday afternoon, from four to six, the Christian Association gave a reception at the Eliot for the new members of the Association.

Miss Mabel Pierce, '04, received with Miss Sara Ricker, formerly '04, at Miss Ricker's coming out party, in Newark, N. J. last week.

R. H. Russell, of New York, has just published an attractive football calendar for the coming year, beginning, however, with November, 1901. These calendars were designed by Mr. I. B. Hazelton of Wellesley Hills and Mr. E. B. Bird.

The illustrations represent the foot-ball fields at different colleges, and different positions of the players during a game. The calendars are for sale at the Tea Room.

"Carmen" at the Bijou Opera House, in Boston, is being received with hearty appreciation. Miss Lane makes an exceedingly effective Carmen, both dramatically and musically, and has received a well-merited recognition.

Skating goods for sale at the Tea Room. Peek and Snyder and Barney and Berry skates, polo balls and hockey sticks. Orders will be most promptly filled.
